The Music Center at Indian Hill Groton, Massachusetts

With more than 1,200 students and 70 professional musicians on its faculty, Indian Hill Music is working to create a Music Education and Performance Center in Groton. The new facility will free the school from space constraints it faces in its present Littleton location while also serving as a destination for music fans. The two-story building will include teaching studios and ensemble rooms, a 300-seat recital room, and a 1,000-seat concert hall with a large door that opens to allow visual and aural access to an additional 1,300 patrons on the lawn.
